Impact matters.

The University of Alabama’s impact can be seen and felt all across the state. Through community outreach, life-changing research, economic development and academic programs, we touch every county in Alabama in a measurable and significant way.

Additionally, our more than 126,600 alumni who have chosen to stay in our great state are creating their own enduring legacies where they live and work.

At The University of Alabama, we understand the impact of what we do. We know you count on us to graduate students prepared to make lifelong contributions to our state... graduates who will impact our communities, our businesses and our economy.

As the state’s flagship, we accept this responsibility wholeheartedly, and we look forward to working with you as we continue to create new discoveries, develop significant partnerships and make meaningful contributions to the citizens of our state.

We are pleased to provide you with a brief snapshot of our impact, and we greatly appreciate the impact you have on Alabama as well.

Sincerely,

Stuart R. Bell
